PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

I have spent my career helping people navigate complex, high-pressure situations in aviation and travel. What motivates me most is not simply resolving issues—it is building trust, helping customers succeed, guiding them through change and creating experiences that make them confident using a service. I am now intentionally transitioning into Customer Success because it aligns with the work I enjoy most: relationship building, onboarding, education, problem solving and long-term customer outcomes. I learn new technology quickly, regularly use AI tools to improve productivity and enjoy working in fast-moving environments where ownership and continuous improvement matter.
